

Twenty-Third Annual Commencement

Friday, May 17, 2019

Saturday, May 18, 2019

Welcome

Welcome to the 23rd annual commencement ceremony at California State University, Monterey Bay.

Commencement is a great day in the life of our graduates and in the life of our university. As students, you have faced many challenges and you have persevered. Now you will have the diploma to prove it.

Remember that none of you achieved this on your own. Your family members and friends share in your pride of accomplishment. Faculty and staff provided guidance along the way. That is an important life lesson; great things happen when we all pull together.

Cal State Monterey Bay is dedicated to educating the diverse people of our state to meet the challenges of a changing world. Our interdisciplinary focus has provided you with the foundation that you will need to view problems from new perspectives, to approach them collaboratively, and to develop creative solutions.

Your classroom experiences have been reinforced by our university's commitment to service learning. Integrating civic literacy and community involvement into our curriculum helps prepare our students to work effectively to create more just and equitable workplaces, communities and social institutions.

As a final achievement, you have completed rigorous capstone projects, through which you have developed and demonstrated deep subject-matter expertise, relevant skills, and the confidence to impress potential employers and graduate schools.

Today is only one milestone in your educational journey. To succeed, you must be lifelong learners. In this era of accelerating technological change, many of today's graduates will move into careers that do not now exist. We are confident that your years at Cal State Monterey Bay have prepared you to adapt to new circumstances.

Members of the Class of 2019, I am proud of you. You have accomplished great things and our collective future will be better because of your contributions. I wish you success and fulfillment as you strive to reach your professional and personal goals. I trust that you will look back and appreciate the foundation of learning that you have acquired here at Cal State Monterey Bay, and will support your alma mater as we prepare succeeding generations of graduates to lead our state and nation.

Congratulations and best wishes, members of the Class of 2019!

California State University Monterey Bay President

Eduardo M. Ochoa

President

Dr. Eduardo M. Ochoa grew up in Buenos Aires, Argentina, before moving with his family to Portland, Ore., while in high school. He has earned degrees in physics, nuclear science and economics from Reed College, Columbia University and the New School for Social Research, respectively. He has worked as an engineer, as a faculty member, dean and provost and as a member of the Obama Administration.

In 2012 he became president of California State University, Monterey Bay.

Dr. Ochoa has a long history of teaching and leadership in the California State University system, including his tenure as provost and vice president for academic affairs at Sonoma State University.

In February 2010, President Barack Obama named Dr. Ochoa assistant secretary for postsecondary education. In that post, he served as the secretary's chief adviser on higher education issues and administered more than 60 programs.

Since arriving to lead California State University Monterey Bay in July 2012, Dr. Ochoa has moved decisively to deal with the challenges facing the university and the region.

His emphasis on inclusion and outreach meshes with both the vision statement of the campus and the realities of serving a student body made up of a majority of first-generation students. He has re-focused attention on improving the university's retention and graduation rates, while stressing the importance of a rigorous educational experience. And he has increased the university's outreach, as it plays a more active role in improving the economy and quality of life on the Central Coast.

Dr. Ochoa has established three broad goals for his presidency: establishing excellence in selected fields in response to regional needs; becoming a national leader in the development of new sustainable models of higher education; and developing the university's catalytic role in regional, cultural and economic development.

Dr. Ochoa's wife, Holly, is a historian, writer and editor. The Ochoas have two adult sons, Michael and Eric.

Mr. Taylor is an excellent role model for California State University Monterey Bay students to follow in community service, stewardship and their own respective careers.

Keynote Speaker

Bonnie D. Irwin

Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs

Dr. Bonnie D. Irwin has served for five years as provost and vice president for Academic Affairs at California State University, Monterey Bay. Under her leadership, the campus has added faculty, increased graduation rates and expanded strategic academic offerings to serve the community.

Dr. Irwin came to California State University Monterey Bay from Eastern Illinois University where she was a professor of English and served as dean of the Honors College and dean of Arts and Humanities. She was named EIU's first professor laureate for excellence in teaching general education.

She is a former president of the National Collegiate Honors Council and currently serves on the board of the Carmel Public Library Foundation. Dr. Irwin also is a steering partner of the Bright Futures partnership, the cradle-to-career initiative for educational attainment in Monterey County.

Since the time her mother taught her to read, Dr. Irwin has had a passion for literature and language. She earned bachelor's, master's and doctoral degrees in comparative literature from the University of California, Berkeley, where she studied Spanish and Arabic literature and folklore. Her passion for students and her knowledge of culture and narrative help her tell the story of our campus.

Dr. Irwin has accepted a job as chancellor of the University of Hawaii at Hilo and will start that position on July 1.

In that role, she launched the AS Toiletry Pantry to provide basic needs items such as soap, feminine hygiene products, deodorant, and other necessities to students in need. She completed her service learning with Everyone's Harvest, where she wrote monthly newsletters and led writing reflections in the garden with groups from local high schools.

Academic Regalia

The tradition of academic costume dates from the Middle Ages, when academic gowns were common attire in early European universities. Since the church founded the universities, students were required to wear the gowns at all times. The gowns represent an adaptation of the cape or mantle worn by church dignitaries in religious processions.

The usual color of academic gowns is black, but through the years variations have developed in color and style. In 1896, U.S. colleges and universities adopted a uniform code governing academic dress.

The style of the gown varies depending on the academic degree. The bachelor's gown is worn closed and has long, pointed sleeves. The master's and the doctoral gowns are worn open. The sleeves of the master's gown are square at one end with a slit at the elbow. The doctoral gown has flowing sleeves with three bars of velvet and a facing of velvet down the front.

The hoods were originally cowls attached to the gowns that could be slipped over the head for warmth. The colors used to line the hoods indicate the college or university from which the wearer received the degree. The hood's border or collar is trimmed in a color indicating the field of study. In addition to the faculty, master's degree candidates wear hoods at the commencement ceremony.

The following is a table with each field of study and its corresponding color.

FIELD OF STUDY	COLOR
Agriculture	Maize
Arts, Letters, Humanities	White
Commerce, Accountancy, Business	Sand
Economics	Copper
Education	Light Blue
Engineering	Orange
Fine Arts, including Architecture	Brown

Music	Pink
Oratory (Speech)	Silver Gray
Philosophy	Dark Blue
Physical Education	Sage Green
Public Administration	Peacock Blue
Public Health	Salmon Pink
Science	Golden Yellow
Social Work	Citron
Theology	Scarlet
